UGCS is pleased to invite registration for their inaugural Supply Chain Wales Conference to be held on Wednesday 10th June 2009 at The Lodge, Celtic Manor Resort, Newport.

Alongside all other regions of the UK, Wales is facing its share of challenges in the current economic climate. For survival in such times, strategic management of an organisation's supply chain and its procurement processes is vital to face current challenges on a local, regional, national or global basis. Join leading purchasing and supply chain practitioners to debate key issues and share best practice in finding solutions to your key business challenges.

Key speakers already confirmed include:

- Martin Christopher – Professor of Marketing and Logistics at Cranfield School of Management
- Martin Sykes – Chief Executive, Value Wales, Welsh Assembly Government
- Steve Agg – Chief Executive, Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transport (UK)

The afternoon's programme features workshops to stimulate further discussion. You will be contacted 2 weeks prior to the event to confirm your selection from the four workshops available.

To book your place today, please contact hcolley@glam.ac.uk or click here to book by credit card online. Alternatively, should you wish to be invoiced, you can download a booking form here and fax it to 01443 485916.

The Association for Operations Management™
Authorized Education Provider

Hilf Supply Chain Solutions is happy to support Supply Chain Wales 2009

Hilf Supply Chain Solutions specialises in the provision of Demand Planning tuition, offering training courses in topics such as MRP, Inventory Management, and Forecasting. We are a major provider of the APICS material to the UK market – currently the only UK company to be recognised by APICS as an “AEP” (Authorized Education Provider). Training is usually delivered in-house, in preparation for the APICS examinations. These globally recognised certifications – either the “Basics of Supply Chain Management” foundation course, or the full CPIM (“Certified in Production & Inventory Management”), equip your team with internationally acknowledged best practice skills aimed at reducing obsolescence exposure, understanding & managing schedule volatility, improving the ROI from your ERP system etc.

If you believe that strengthening these building blocks within your organisation will assist your journey to excellence, contact us at info@hilf.co.uk to discuss your requirements. Welsh based companies who are currently seeking ProAct funding may wish to strengthen their supply chain teams’ knowledge in this way.
